

Pat yourself on the back, because you have come a long way.

At this point in the course, you have already defined all of your AJAX APIs and set up server routes to listen for those requests.

In other words: you have done the hard slog.

This final section is merely adding a little design flare (and yes, some JavaScript) to glue all of our puzzle pieces together.

I can't wait.

