

The .htaccess does not allow for logout functionality. Once the correct login credentials have been input they get saved in the web browser's cache until you quit the browser.

This is why in the video I changed the required user from joe to wally

